

nomádes...

(an international cycle of audiovisual works and electroacoustic music)

Curated by Claudia Robles Angel.

The purpose of this cycle of concerts is to mainly disseminate fixed media audiovisual works around the world, in which image and music share the same degree of importance; the cycle includes pure electroacoustic music pieces too.

The concerts aim to take place without a fixed venue or country, according to the name 'nomádes', a Greek word to define people who rather than settling permanently in one location, move from one place to another.

Francis Dhomont

He studied composition under Ginette Waldmeier, Charles Koechlin and Nadia Boulanger.[1] In the late 1940s he intuitively discovered with magnetic wire what Pierre Schaeffer at about the same time came to call musique concrète, consequently conducting solitary experiments with the musical possibilities of sound recording. In 1963 he decided to dedicate his time to electroacoustic composition utilising natural sounds.[1] Performances in public of his music are done using the French "diffusion" technique over multiple loudspeakers. His work consists exclusively of tape pieces using natural, or "found" sounds, exploring morphological interplay and the ambiguities between sound and the images it may create. Dhomont's work has won many international awards including at the Bourges International Electroacoustic Music Competition (France), the Magisterium Prize in 1988, Prix Ars Electronica in 1992 (Linz, Austria) and others. In 1997, as the winner of the Canada Council for the Arts' Lynch-Staunton Prize, he was supported by the DAAD for a residence in Berlin. He was recently awarded a prestigious career grant by the Conseil des arts et des lettres du Québec . Dhomont is the editor of several electroacoustic music journals, and has produced many radio programs for Radio-Canada and Radio-France. From 1978 to 2005, he divided his time between France and Québec, where he taught at the Université de Montréal from 1980 to 1996.[1] He was a founding member of the Canadian Electroacoustic Community. He now lives in Avignon (France) and regularly presents his works in France and abroad. A great traveller, he frequently participates in juries.

Synopsen TEIL I

- TRAVELOG #1 – Nuit Bleue - (2008) Claudia Robles A
" ... Il semble que l'être volant dépasse l'atmosphère même où il vole. "
 (It seems that the flying being exceeds even the atmosphere where he flies.) After Gaston Bachelard
-Nuit Bleue- is the first 'logbook' of the TRAVELOG series : An assemblage of travels, of continuous journeys from reality to imaginary. This first journey invites us to dip into the transparentness of a fragile matter that gradually dissolves itself, revealing us landscapes, indeterminate spaces... cities that immerse the deep blue of the night.

- Un regard sur la Ville (2004) (A look on the city) Elsa Justel
The city becomes a fantastic world when the images reflected on its surfaces change its reality. This work was realized with photographs of windows of the city of Paris and neighbours. The music is based on recorded sounds or crystals and other materials of the city ambiance.

- u_xy (2005) 10' Jorge Haro
This work is a result of a Europe tour made during 2005 that included the following cities: Barcelona, Krakow, Hamburg, Porto, Lisbon, Huelva. In each city I improvised in the first part of the concert. The improvisations was recorded and after was post produced in studio. In each city I have taken photos with particularities of urban profile for to compose a video in real time during the concerts, processing the original images with filters, patterns, etc. The audiovisual product is an abstract approach of each city with a subjective point of view.

- PASSAGES (2009) 8' 26" Video: Ines Wickman
Musik: Francis Dhomont
Passages through obligatory urban spaces. Imposed perpetual movement. Gathering of human beings, prisoners in the kaleidoscope of a strange game. The solitary man and his double are walking towards an abyss of shadows. The music is an original composition realized by the composer Francis Dhomont. Research/Creation Grant, Canada Council for the Arts.

TEIL II

Vida Lunar (2006) 9'40" Rodrigo Sigal
Throughout the composition of the work the sounds were defining at the same time the real and virtual spaces for the piece. The flute's potential as a sound source is endless (bass flute and a 2.5 meter long double bass flutes were used). These possibilities together with technology made me feel in a trip that could sometimes go beyond our senses. I hope this can be shared through the work. I would like to thank Dr. Alejandro Escuer who helped with the sounds used. Lunar Life was a commission by Alejandro Lavanderos and it is dedicated to him. It was composed with funding from the Arts Department of the Catholic University of Chile.

Poder y Resistencia (2010) 10' (Macht und Widerstand) Eduardo Flores
Bei der Bild- und Klangsynthese wurden eigene Computer-Algorithmen unter Benutzung von Pure Data mit GEM-Bibliotheken und Csound verwendet.
Als Material wurden die letzten per Rundfunk gesendeten Worte des chilenischen Präsidenten Salvador Allende und drei kurze Video-Aufnahme aus einer 1. Mai Demonstration verwendet.

Zeigen und Verstecken (eine ikastische audiovisuelle Improvisation)
(2012) 25' Luis Negron & Claudia Robles A
Wie in einem Ikastischen* Prozess, bilden die Medienkünstler Claudia Robles (Kolumbien) y Luis Negrón van Grieken (Venezuela) aus einem Bildstrom ein eigenes Sammelbild mit Hilfe des Mentalen. In einer archäologischen Geste werden während der Performances akustische und visuelle Schichten entdeckt und gemischt und somit eine weitere Lesbarkeit des urbanen Imaginarium geliefert. Die Lesbarkeit dieses anonymisierten Stadtbild transformiert sich wie die Eintragungen eines Notizbuchs während einer Reise: Landkarten werden erzeugt, neue Landschaften geschaffen und Verbindungen zwischen den verwendeten Elemente werden aus hergestellt.
*ikastisch ist nach Italo Calvino die Fähigkeit eines Betrachters aus Fluss von Bildwechseln einen visuellen Gedanken zu bilden.
